May you find Christ here . . .

May you bring Christ to the world.

“I recently moved from an area of the country where there were very few Catholics. I was not involved and felt stagnant in my faith. Now, I am amazed and uplifted by the community here! It is exciting to get involved... I just want to do everything!”

Our Lady, as soon as she had heard the news that she was to be the Mother of Jesus and the announcement that her cousin, Elizabeth was expecting a child – the Gospel says – she went to her in haste; she did not wait. She did not say, “I am too busy; or I am with child myself and am too tired; or, Elizabeth has friends who live closer who can take care of her.” No, Mary did not wait... a great example for us to imitate as we contemplate our service.

We welcome you to hasten... to transport parishioners to Mass or the pharmacy; we welcome you to serve with our St. Vincent DePaul; we welcome you to welcome others the first Sunday of the month with Hospitality! We welcome you to help with our Fair Trade Markets; we welcome you to sing with one of our Choirs; we welcome you to serve as an Usher/Greeter; we welcome you to make haste and let us know where your heart for service meets the needs of our community!

The Book of Remembrance

There are sheets of paper available in the Narthex of church on which we encourage you to write the names of family members and friends who have died. These sheets will be collected into our Book of Remembrance, and brought forward on Monday, November 2, the Feast of All Souls.

We pray for our loved ones who have died that God will welcome them home, put loving arms around them, and fill them with peace.

Baptismal Preparation Class

All parents are required to participate in a class of Pre-Baptismal instruction before having their child/children baptized at Assumption. For expectant parents it is often better to attend this class before baby is born. Call the Parish Office at 240.3721 to schedule a class.

“For the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many.” (Mark 10:45)

If you held a mirror up to your life, would it reflect God's love and grace? If you are struggling with this, try changing your attitude from “I want more” to “thank you God for everything you have given me, I have enough to share”. This change in perspective will bring you joy through service to others.

Life Peace Justice Everyone CanTake Action

God's Love unites all life.... all people, all creatures, even Earth and its vegetation -- all are interconnected in a web of life. We believe that in God's Love all life is held together... all life is sacred. Christ is our model for how we are to love ourselves, one another, and our world. Each choice... each action... echoes with effects and consequences. Every day, we are given opportunities to put our beliefs in action.

God has entrusted to us this world. As Christians, our baptism calls us to champion the cause of life, peace, and, justice... to form our conscience with the understanding that all life comes from God. As with any issue of faith, we engage prayer, education, and action to form our conscience.

Simply go to www.assumptionbvm.org and click on Resources and then Life, Peace and Justice Action Alerts. Here you will find a number of online organizations and resources dedicated to the promotion and protection of all life. Action Alerts are a way for us to draw on our faith to change the world around us -- to connect to those who are most vulnerable, most at-risk of having the sacredness of their life threatened -- to voice our concerns and our beliefs to decision-makers and leaders. In line with what our catechism teaches about social justice, these links are not meant to command us to think or choose one way or another. Rather, they provide an opportunity to grow in our faith and understanding of pivotal life issues such as abortion, human-trafficking, hunger, the environment, capital punishment, etc. And, they are a way for us to bring Christ to the world... To participate in bringing about the reign of God's Love.

You can watch the 10:00AM Mass - LIVE!

We now have available a Live Feed of our 10:00am Mass!

If you are home bound for any reason or away at school, or know someone who is, simply visit our home page at www.assumptionbvm.org and scroll your mouse over the "Resources" tab, click on "Live Stream, Talks, & Videos". There, you will find the link to click on to view the live Mass. NOTE: You will only see the live link available 15 minutes before Mass begins. Please know that the video cameras will mainly be pointed in the direction of the sanctuary area.

What if in a day and a half you were given one chance to be a happier you... a better parent... a better spouse... find true peace... or even have your faith COMPLETELY energized? Or, maybe for the first time, feel the presence of God calling your name. If given this chance... to invest a day and a half... would you?
Sound impossible?

MIRACLES happen... lives are changed FOREVER...

World Mission Sunday

Today is World Mission Sunday. Archbishop Carlson writes, in part: "As we prepare to celebrate World Mission Sunday – the one day of the year in which Catholics worldwide pray and sacrifice for the missionary work of the church – we reflect on the message of Pope Francis, which reminds us: 'Being a missionary is part of the grammar of faith. Those who follow Christ cannot fail to be missionaries. All the Church's members are called to proclaim the Gospel by their witness of life.'

Our prayers and sacrificial offering in the collection for World Mission Sunday assists 1,150 mission territories of the world, including Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Pacific Islands. Through the Society for the Propagation of the Faith and the Pope's network of missionary support – we can help proclaim the Gospel to the ends of the earth."

In addition to prayers and a liturgical calendar, you have access to the Mass readings for every day of the year. They are recorded, so you can choose to read them or listen to them. Anyone can enrich their lives just by reading the Scriptures. You don't have to be a theologian or scholar -- no previous experience is necessary. When you begin to read God's Word, the Holy Spirit moves and your heart begins to open to all that God has to say. Soon, you will develop a thirst. Give it a try!

"I have said these things to you while still with you; but the Advocate, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything and remind you of all I have said to you."

Pastoral Statement on Immigration & Mercy

Robert J. Carlson, Archbishop of St. Louis

Mindful of my pastoral responsibility to bring the light of faith to bear on our historical reality (Lumen Fidei, 38), I wish to address our Catholic faithful and people of good will in this pastoral statement on immigration and mercy.

As a People of God, our Catholic journey and pilgrim identity is marked by a profound commitment to serving those around us, especially the most vulnerable, the poor and the migrant (Acts 4:32). In our country, the Church has been responsive to the waves of immigrants that have graced our American shores. The Irish, the German, the Italian, the Polish, and other European immigrants have found a generous hospitality in our Catholic churches and institutions.

Our Catholic sensibility and pastoral care has taught us that in serving the least among us, we have touched the face of Christ: "Come you that are blessed by my Father...for I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was sick and you took care of me, I was in prison and you visited me" (Matthew 25: 34-35).

Our journey toward the Lord is still alive today. Our Catholic communities and public squares are replete with new faces of immigrant sisters and brothers who need our loving response. As the local bishop and pastor of the Archdiocese of St. Louis, I am aware of the painful stories of immigrants whose ongoing sufferings and sacrifices reveal to us the presence of Jesus crucified.

And, as I listen to our national discourse on immigration, I am becoming increasingly concerned about the language and rhetoric of discrimination, hate and alienation. In my visits and conversations with our Hispanic sisters and brothers, in particular, I have heard how difficult, painful and divisive this rhetoric of hate has been, and how it is creating an atmosphere of anxiety, withdrawal and fear.

For many of our immigrant Hispanic youth and young adults, this anti-immigrant atmosphere is also contributing to legislative initiatives that make it difficult for them to successfully contribute to the common good. At this time of uncertainty, our Hispanic families need to know that our Catholic community, both locally and nationally, is here to accompany and stand firmly with them.

In my Homily for the Mass of Peace and Justice, I stressed the need to give greater attention to the work of justice by elevating our respect for one another and our commitment to being with one another in the suffering, not letting our brothers and sisters bear their sufferings alone, helping each one to carry the Cross of suffering and respecting at all times their human dignity. Hence, our need to fix our gaze on the greater signs of solidarity and hope promised to us in the Resurrection.

As your bishop and pastor, I am attentive to the complexities of working for immigration reform. While I fully support the labor of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops' Justice for Immigrants Campaign, I do so knowing that for many this public advocacy and work brings personal apprehensions and resistance. At the same time, I am grateful to Catholics and people of good will in the archdiocese who are reaching out to our immigrant communities.

I recognize, too, that work on behalf of immigration reform can cultivate seeds of discord and division among our faithful when viewed independently of the light of faith. Yet, as members of the one Body of Christ, we remain confident in our faith (Romans 12:3-5). We stand on solid ground when our faith illumines our pastoral practice of respect for the human dignity of all persons and service for the common good. More than ever, our social, political and world reality urges us to engage this pastoral issue with evangelical justice and charity in our hearts (Colossians 3:12-15).

And in a special way, our hearts and minds also attend to the cry of the many thousands of people who are leaving their homelands because of religious persecution or in search of a better life for their families. The global migration and refugee crisis we are facing as a human family, and the pain and brokenness that many of our sisters and brothers are encountering as they search for more humane conditions of life cannot be ignored. As Catholics, we must continue to pray for God's grace and mercy to be abundant, so that the families and children who are directly affected may find welcoming hands at the end of their journeys.

Furthermore, we must ensure that our prayers always be accompanied by concrete actions for what is right and just. As our Sacred Scripture tells us, our faith cannot be devoid of visible love and care for one another (James 2:14-17). This means that each one of us must find ways to engage and contribute to the humanitarian efforts that are responding to the migration and refugee crisis at hand. And as we strive to do our part, we recall the words of Pope Francis reminding us that our human efforts are never far from God: "God is able to multiply our small gestures of solidarity and make us partakers of his gift."

It is in the spirit of prayerful conversion and pastoral mercy to our global and local reality that I reaffirm my own commitment to accompany our immigrant and refugee communities. Indeed, the world realities of migration are not far from our shores and neighborhoods. Today, I also call upon the faithful of the Archdiocese of St. Louis and people of good will to join me in expressing our solidarity and hope. Our mission as one Pilgrim Church is to serve in the manner of Christ, and to follow closely in the footsteps of our Lord and Savior (Lumen Gentium, 14).

As we journey together and prepare for the Extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy, may we recognize that we are strangers no longer and seek to bring to light God's mercy: "It is time to return to the basics and to bear the weaknesses and struggles of our brothers and sisters. Mercy is the force that reawakens us to new life and instills in us the courage to look to the future with hope" (Misericordiae Vultus, 10).

Rite of Acceptance

Our Church opens her arms, in the Rite of Acceptance, to embrace 14 men and women next weekend at all masses. They have seen His power among us, and begun to hear His story of love, mercy and redemption. They have already seen how life in Christ calls for changes in how they live, and are already making these changes. They now come in faith, and we here at Assumption will have the privilege of accepting them into our midst. It marks the first public declaration of God's call to follow Christ.

We who are already baptized are to welcome these catechumens (those not baptized) and candidates (those already baptized) into our homes, our lives and our ministries, and to show them what it means today to be a disciple of Jesus Christ. So this Rite of Acceptance and Rite of Welcoming is both a time of joy and a time of commitment for all of us. May we mark it with the enthusiasm of the Spirit and a renewed commitment to the way of the cross.

A Documentary Narrated by Cokie Roberts

The CPPS Partners in Mission, a lay associate group in relationship with the Sisters of the Most Precious Blood of O'Fallon, is hosting the documentary Women & Spirit on Saturday, November 14, at 10:00am at Villa Theresa (O'Fallon). Please come and listen to stories of magnanimity, courage, and fidelity to the Gospel mission as Catholic Sisters in America narrate the virtually untold story of women religious in the United States who exercised leadership at a time when few women enjoyed such possibilities. Theirs is a story of quiet courage during many dramatic moments in U.S. history. Discover the mystery behind this small community of innovative women who helped shape the nations' social, cultural, and spiritual landscape. Refreshments will be available, and there will be time for discussion following this 56 minute video.
