Hello,

As we come to the end of our 4th of July celebrations (I think I will still hear a few fireworks tonight), when we think about the 4th of July and the Declaration of Independence one of the words that we think of is Freedom. We celebrate the freedom from being ruled by a king (the British Crown) and another nation (the State of Great Britain) and declared that we are to be Free and Independent States. Freedom is something we identify very strongly with as a nation and can react strongly when we are aware that it is threatened, and that is why I think it is important to recognize how we use and understand the word Freedom.

Looking up definitions of freedom the primary concerns that are normally mentioned are the ability to act or choose and for this to be done without any constraint or coercion. It is common for us to think that anything that would bias our decision from choosing one thing over another would make that choice less free. However, the Catholic Church considers this word a little differently. I remember when I had my first class on morals in the seminary and telling my professor that he was using the word 'free' wrong, or at least differently then is standard for our culture and the English language. The difference was that he, and the Church, was defining a decision to be 'more free' if it was towards our good. It took me a little while to accept this use of the word, but I now not only have accepted it but also will clarify that I am using it in that context at times when talking to others.

I think this is an important distinction to make, not only to be able to more clearly communicate, but because at its root there is a fundamental difference that is becoming more pronounced between our faith and the general culture. In our faith, we believe there are absolutes such as God, sin, and truth. Whereas society is recognizing less and less absolutes as a larger percentage of people are atheists, or even more so agnostics and consider that we can't know if there is or isn't a God, we hear the phrases 'my truth' or 'your truth' used, and if there is no God, and no truths, there definitely can't be any sin. If we don't believe in any absolutes then it is hard to say that anything is good or bad for someone, and so we get back to the more common definition of freedom when any bias in a choice must make it less free, since there can't be something that is absolutely more or less good for someone.

However, this isn't what our Declaration of Independence says: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

I guess we do have some absolutes we believe in as a country: truths, a Creator, and even some unalienable Rights, things that sound worth celebrating. Maybe once we can agree on our definitions for Freedom and Life, we might even start to consider Happiness.

Peace,

Fr. Nick

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS DURING JULY

As stewards of the monetary gifts that God has bestowed on us, we should give back to His Church and to other worthy causes. During the month of July, please support the general needs of the parish through the Sunday offertory, and consider the following specific causes and needs:

Debt Reduction—Donations to this collection will pay down the balance of Assumption's loan from the Archdiocese, which we borrowed in 2013 to fund the expansion of the school building.

Mission Co-operative—Each year, we invite a missionary priest to spend a weekend in our parish to explain his efforts to serve the needy in his community. You may support his work with your generous gift.

St. Vincent de Paul—Your contribution provides direct help to the poor in our local community. Since 1845, Vincentians have met face-to-face with individuals and families in poverty to provide support and help them through the most desperate times. Through your generosity, you help people struggling to survive, providing: clothing, shelter, food, medicine and more.

If you use online bill payment through your bank, please send a separate payment for the fund(s) of your choice and specify the name of the cause in the memo field of your payment instructions.

Thank you.
